Welcome

Hello and welcome.

Thank you for joining us for our Classic and Contemporary Australia masterclass and free-pour tasting in Aarhus.

With ancient soils, innovative winemakers and diverse climates, Australia has so much to offer. Australia is the size of Europe, but only around 145,000 hectares (0.02%) of the country's total land mass is under vine, approximately the same area as Bordeaux and Burgundy combined. Australia is home to more than 150 grape varieties across 65 wine regions, where our creative winemakers are pushing the boundaries and crafting some of the most exciting wines in the world.

Today, we'll explore Australia's iconic regions and classic varieties as well as alternative varieties and new wave styles. Taste the wines that put Australia in the spotlight and discover exciting new wines that are coming out of the country today. As well as refreshing your knowledge of Australian wine, it's an opportunity to uncover regional and stylistic differences, find out about winemaking techniques and innovative spirit, and look into the future of Australian wine.

The masterclass features twelve wines from eight regions, with classic styles including Clare Valley Riesling, Barossa Valley Shiraz and Margaret River Cabernet Sauvignon, shown alongside their new wave alternative styles including skin contact Greco, Chardonnay from the up-and-coming cool climate region of Gippsland and minimal intervention Pinot Noir. You can continue your exploration of Australia's classic and contemporary styles in the free-pour tasting, which features 34 wines. The line-up includes aromatic whites, Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Grenache, Shiraz, Cabernet Sauvignon and alternative varieties.

If this tasting inspires you and you'd like to find out more about Australian wine, have a look at www.australianwinediscovered.com. Australian Wine Discovered is all you need to know about Australian wine in one place; it's free to use and completely flexible. With comprehensive guides, editable presentations, maps, videos and quizzes, this is a great resource whether you're training your team, preparing for an event, researching, or continuing your own wine education.

We also publish regular Market Bulletins on our website (wineaustralia.com/news/market-bulletin) about the sector, global trends, opportunities and topical issues, and there is a wealth of information on Interactive Insights (wineaustralia.com/market-insights/interactive-insights). Here you can access current and historical statistics and analysis on markets, exports, regions and vintages.

We hope you enjoy today. If you have any queries about Australian wine or the wines featured, please just ask during the masterclass or free-pour tasting, or drop me a line on emma.symington@wineaustralia.com.

Aromatic whites

FREE-POUR TASTING

Australia produces a diverse range of aromatic whites, which are light to medium in body and medium to high in acidity. The wines express the diversity of the people who craft them and the unique regional characteristics of their origins. Sauvignon Blanc is Australia's second most planted white variety after Chardonnay, with Riesling and Viognier further down the list.

Chardonnay

FREE-POUR TASTING

The first Chardonnay cuttings arrived in Australia in the 1830s, and it's now the country's most planted white grape variety. In the 1980s, everything was big: expense accounts, shoulder pads and Chardonnay. Australian Chardonnay was renowned for being rich, oaky, full of flavour and ripe fruit. But a lot has changed since then. With varying winemaking techniques and cool climate sites, there's now a new wave of Australian Chardonnay.

Alternative varieties

FREE-POUR TASTING

Today there are over 150 varieties planted in Australia. Alternative varieties make up around 4% of Australia's vineyard area – a small but exciting percentage. Without laws restricting what can be planted and where, Australia has become a hotbed of innovation and experimentation, with growers and makers exploring how different varieties express themselves in their unique terroir. From Assyrtiko to Zinfandel, these varieties play an important role in many regions, where they complement the classics and keep things fresh.

Pinot Noir

FREE-POUR TASTING

Pinot Noir has a long history in Australia, arriving in the early 1800s, however only recently the wines have captured the attention of the wine world. The wines are elegant, silky and perfumed. Pinot Noir is grown in approximately three quarters of Australian wine regions, with the best in cool climates that benefit from elevation or cooling sea breezes.

Grenache

FREE-POUR TASTING

Australia is home to some of the oldest Grenache vineyards in the world, dating back to the 1850s. From its early days in fortified wines, to GSM blends and single varietal wines, Grenache has been on quite a journey. The variety is enjoying a renaissance after decades in the shadows, and the lighter, fresh and aromatic expressions are proving popular. Grenache is a variety that enjoys warm climates and improves as the vines age, which is why the Barossa Valley and McLaren Vale, two of Australia's oldest regions, produce some of the best Grenache.

Cabernet Sauvignon

FREE-POUR TASTING

Cabernet Sauvignon is Australia's third most planted grape variety, grown in 58 of our 65 wine regions. Although Cabernet Sauvignon has achieved great success as a single variety wine, winemakers often blend it with other varieties including Shiraz, Merlot, Malbec, Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot. Australia is home to some of the world's oldest Cabernet Sauvignon vines and a community of winemakers respecting classic techniques while pushing boundaries to create something new.

Shiraz

FREE-POUR TASTING

Shiraz made its way to Australia more than two hundred years ago: John MacArthur is widely credited with importing the first cuttings in 1817 from Europe. Today, Shiraz accounts for nearly a quarter of Australia's total wine production and it's the country's biggest exported grape variety. Australian producers aren't resting on their laurels, they're perfecting old concepts and playing with new ideas to continue the evolution of Shiraz.
