

THE TRIALS AND TRIUMPHS OF THE BARRY FAMILY OVER THE LAST 60 YEARS

EST. 1959

South Australia's Clare Valley is one of Australia's oldest wine-producing areas, with a winemaking history dating back to settlement in 1849. The unique combination of geography, geology and climate, result in terroir that is perfect for producing world-class wine. Warm days, coupled with cool nights during the growing season provide favourable conditions for the varieties grown in the area.

Jim Barry Wines is a multi-generational, family owned winery in the Clare Valley of South Australia. The winery was founded in 1959 by the late Jim Barry and his wife Nancy. Jim Barry, was a pioneer of the Australian wine industry. Graduating from Roseworthy College with the 17th diploma in Oenology, he became the first qualified winemaker in Clare. Today the company is owned and managed by Jim's son Peter and grandsons, Tom and Sam. Over the last sixty years, the Barry family has worked to establish a mosaic of 18 vineyards across the Clare Valley and 2 vineyards in Coonawarra, each different in aspect and soil, creating unique Australian wines with a regional focus and a true sense of place.
