Winery

Coming to the Adelaide Hills, we were amazed with the natural beauty and seemingly perfect environment. This young region has immense potential for premium wine growing because of its cool climate, lean and ancient soils, natural rain fall and sunny long summer days. This stood out to us as the future of wine in Australia.

The region's ability to grow fruit of immense character, purity and elegance brought us to purchase a former apple and cherry orchard on the steep slopes of the Lenswood subregion. Here we have built our organically certified winery and established a new vineyard pushing the boundaries of viticulture in Australia.
