OUR PATCH OF MARGARET RIVER

The story behind every bottle begins at our place in southern Margaret River, Stevens Valley, where idyllic microclimate, ancient geology and coastal influence converge to create our distinctive Voyager Estate style.

We grow and make our wines on the land of the Wadandi People, the Traditional Custodians of the Margaret River region.

We pay our respects to their Elders past and present.

Our ultimate ambition couldn't be simpler – to craft wines that do justice to our extraordinary climate and soils through some of the purest expressions of Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon in the world.

As of 2023, both the winery and vineyard proudly bear full organic certification.

The journey towards this achievement commenced in 2017, with the inaugural harvest of certified organic grapes in 2020.

Through our continued focus on sustainability, craft and innovation, we aim to shine a light on Margaret River, one of the world's great wine regions, and our special place in it.

INDEPENDENT, FAMILY-OWNED AND RUN

From the moment our founder dipped his shovel in the gravelly soils all those years ago, he knew this place was special. Voyager Estate is one of the iconic wine estates of the Margaret River region, conceived by Michael Wright— a farmer and regional pioneer.

To this day, Voyager Estate remains a small, family-owned and independently-run business, now led by Michael's daughter Alexandra Burt. She is fiercely committed to a sustainable future that continues her father's legacy of creating wines of place.

OUR CRAFT, OUR WINE

To lead the production of site-expressive wines with a genuine sense of place, our viticulture and winemaking team uses minimal input methods and organic farming practices, encouraging the vines to work harder and go deeper, ultimately enhancing the expression of place.

All our wines are single-estate-grown and made. Each variety plays its part in demonstrating the effect of our site's gravel soils, microclimate, aspect and maritime influence—wines that could be from no other place on earth; uniquely Voyager Estate and distinctly Margaret River.

A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

From the practices in our vineyard to the way we care for our planet and our people, sustainability is at the core of Voyager Estate. We aim to leave the land in a better place than we found it for future generations. Over the past twenty years, we've prioritised the health of our environment and soils, using beneficial bugs to combat pests, turning our grape marc and kitchen scraps into mounds of beautiful compost, and having an advanced irrigation system that conserves our water resources.

We've planted over 60,000 native trees to rehabilitate cleared farmland and slow surface run-off. We carefully monitor waterways and reuse winery wastewater for wood lot watering. Beyond the land, Voyager Estate engages with philosophically aligned partners with the aim of making a positive impact on the region. Our dedicated, staff-led Voyager Community program has donated nearly $10,000 to 14 local community organisations.

Each year, between 16-25% of our energy comes from our own solar panels. We offset the balance of our operational carbon footprint by purchasing verified carbon credits. In 2023, our offsets supported an international wind farming project and a savannah burning project in the Northern Territory.

In addition to our organics program, we are a certified member of Sustainable Winegrowing Australia (SWA), a national program for winemakers to demonstrate and continuously improve their sustainability in the vineyard and winery through the environmental, social and economic aspects of their businesses.

Voyager is currently a silver member of the International Wineries for Climate Action (IWCA), confirming our commitment to taking immediate and long-term action to reduce greenhouse emissions. Some of our current emissions reduction initiatives include using lightweight bottles, our kitchen garden reducing 'food miles', less wood burning at our cellar door and a zoha carbon and biodiversity planting project to store carbon in trees and shrubs.

OUR PEOPLE

The influence of our people, their ideas, passions and interpretations over the generations is what makes Voyager Estate what it is today.

TIM SHAND

CHIEF WINEMAKER

Joining the Voyager family in 2022, Tim believes winemaking is closer to a craft than an art. Respect for the raw materials is everything, finding the beauty and deliciousness in the fruit that is grown and expressing them to drinkers with the lightest possible touch.

MIKE SAUNDERS

HEAD OF VITICULTURE

Mike's passion for viticulture began at an early age, driving a tractor with his grandad on the family farm. He helped shape the award-winning wines at Greystone, Esk Valley and Villa Maria in New Zealand before joining Voyager as the Head of Viticulture. Mike champions sustainability, seeing wine as the culmination of a year's work and dedication—a story of the season captured in a bottle.

TOM BLOOMBERG

WINEMAKER

Joining the Voyager Estate team in 2024, Tom has spent the last 6 years traversing the globe working vintage in the Barossa, Bendigo, Bordeaux, Marlborough and Portugal. His travels landed him in Margaret River, where he discovered the diversity that makes this region so great.

MICHELLE MCMANUS

HEAD OF SUSTAINABILITY

An integral part of the team since 2019, Michelle is responsible for steering Voyager Estate's mandate to create a sustainable legacy for future generations. With a rich career consulting many industries and projects, Michelle is a dedicated and experienced practitioner, working with our team, suppliers, and the wider community.
