OUR STORY

Atlas Wines was established in 2007 by Adam Barton and Amy Lane. Their vision, simply to produce great wines from exceptional people and places. Like its name denotes, Atlas is a collection of these relationships and creations. Unbound, Atlas Wines charts its own course.

CLARE VALLEY

The 429 Shiraz is crafted from a single parcel of estate-grown shiraz at White Hut in the Clare Valley. It is uniquely expressive of this place and is shaped by our winemaking philosophies, resulting in an evocative example of our own house style.

OUR LOCATION

Atlas Wines' base is in South Australia's Clare Valley, home to Atlas' two estate vineyards. Fruit is also sourced via longstanding grower relationships, from vineyards of exceptional provenance elsewhere in the valley and in South Australia's other prestigious wine regions, including the Barossa Valley and the Adelaide Hills.

OUR VINEYARDS

WHITE HUT VINEYARD

This vineyard, in the White Hut subregion at the northern end of the Clare Valley, is the original Atlas Wines vineyard. It's planted exclusively with Shiraz, with a mix of vines planted in the 1980s and 2000s, and new rootlings planted in 2018. The climate here is more temperate than other parts of the valley, the topsoil is shallow and the vines work hard to produce small berries with intense flavours, a winemaker's dream.

LEASINGHAM VINEYARD

Atlas Wines acquired the Leasingham Vineyard in 2020. It covers 20 hectares and is located at the start of the region's "Golden Mile", amongst some of the Clare Valley's most iconic vineyards. The plantings include several clones of Shiraz and Tempranillo. They're very well established and in their prime, growing in an elevated, uniform piece of terra rossa soil.

OUR RANGES

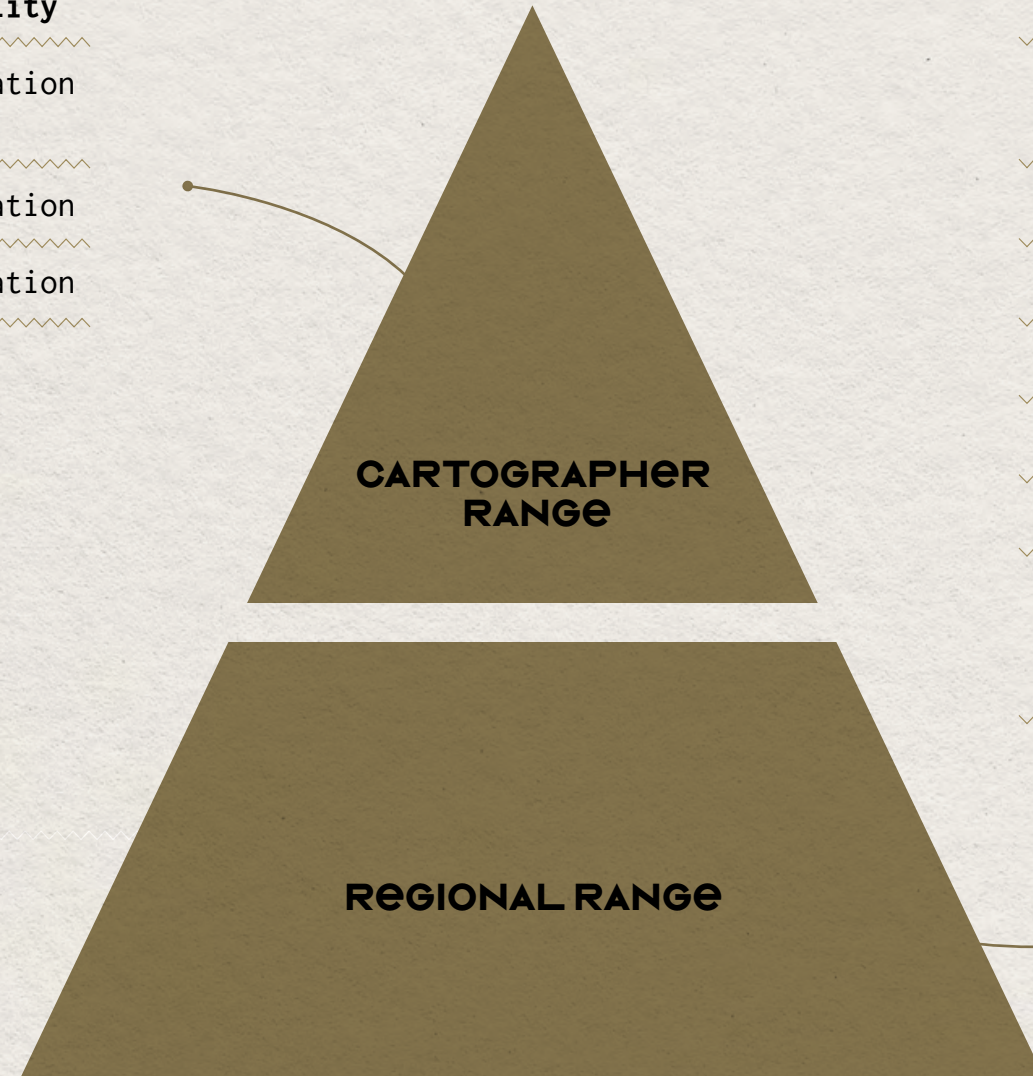

Atlas Wines' premium range of wines are not made every vintage, they're only made when a parcel of fruit is deemed worthy. Atlas' winemaking approach in these cases is typified by minimal intervention and attention to detail to create wines uniquely expressive of place and Atlas' winemaking philosophies.
