

How to reuse water from inside the home on your garden

Water is vital for life. Humans, animals, and plants all need it to survive. This means it's important to take care of this precious resource and use it wisely. Every day, water is wasted inside the home. Did you know we can capture this water and use it on our plants in the garden?

Activity

Under each scenario, write down what you could do to be waterwise.

- 1. You turn on the shower and are waiting for the water to heat up.

- 2. You have water left in your drink bottle at the end of the day.

- 3. You are washing the vegetables for dinner.

Did you know?
The shower is the largest contributor to household water use. This means if you want to be a water-saving superstar, keep your showers short. We recommend four minutes or less. That is plenty of time to lather up and rinse off.
